IMPORTANT DOCUMENTS

VISA

Once you have been accepted for a period of exchange at UTFPR, it is necessary to apply for a temporary visa IV at a Brazilian consulate in your country. Brazilian visas are not awarded in national territory, airports, ports or at points of entry of the Brazilian border.

In order to apply for the visa, you must submit an online application, then present yourself to the Brazilian consulate with the following documents: the printed and signed Receipt; your passport; a recent ID photo; a Negative Certificate of Criminal Background; proof of financial ability or scholarship to remain in Brazil during the exchange period; proof of means of transportation in and out of Brazil; proof of payment of consular fees; and proof of active enrollment at the University.

Remember to visit the consulate website to confirm which documents you will need.

The temporary visa IV fees range from 100 to 300 dollars, depending on the country. The documents must be in Portuguese, English, French or Spanish, otherwise they can be accepted by sworn translation into Portuguese.

The temporary IV visa will be issued within 10 business days. It is recommended that the request for the visa is made at least 60 days before the date of travel.

Registration in the Federal Police Department (DPF): you must present yourself to the DPF within 30 days of your entry in Brazil.

Remember: the temporary IV visa (VITEM IV) is only granted to those who come to Brazil as a student, without any paid activity, except for those who are attending in higher education institutions for internship programs - if that's your case, you must also present proof of the internship signed by you and your supervisor.

CIE/RNE

Within 30 days after your arrival and holding the temporary visa IV (VITEM IV), you must schedule an appointment and present yourself to the Federal Police Department, where you will be registered to receive the CRNM. The National Migration Registry Card (CRNM) is an ID for temporarily admitted foreigners in Brazil, and it's valid throughout the national territory. The National Migration Registry (RNM) is the registration number informed in the CRNM.

In order to issue the CRNM, you must first access the DPF website at <http://www.pf.gov.br/servicos-pf/imigracao> to register your temporary visa (at "Registro de Visto Consular"). Then submit the form with your personal information and generate the payment form in the amount of 204.77 BRL. After that, you must schedule a visit to the Federal Police Department to present the required documents (you can get the checklist at the DPF website).

The nearest Federal Police station (Polícia Federal) is located at Rua Tietê, 1450, Vila Nova, around 7 km from Campus Londrina (Phone: +55 43 3294 7200).

Important: The DPF website is mostly written in Portuguese and does not present an English translation for all sections, please contact DERINT in case you need any help.

Language

It is not required that exchange students take official Portuguese exams to apply. However, if you're planning to take courses at UTFPR, please be aware that almost all of them are taught in Portuguese. We recommend that you achieve a B1 level in Portuguese before coming. If you intend to do an internship or take part in research activities, please check with your supervisor for any specific recommendation regarding the language. Campus Apucarana does not offer a Portuguese language course for non-native speakers.

Academic calendar

Our academic calendar is divided into two semesters. The first one begins in March and ends in the first week of July and second one begins in August and ends in the first week of December. We have a "winter break" in July and a "summer break" from December to February. You can check the complete calendar on our website: <http://portal.utfpr.edu.br/alunos/calendario>

Holidays and academic breaks

Our academic activities are usually affected by holidays, academic breaks, and other similar situations which might impact on opening hours and access to services on the campus. For instance, the University Restaurant does not serve meals during academic breaks, and our library also adopts different opening hours during those. In particular cases, the campus may offer courses and activities over academic breaks.

Bank account

If you wish or need to open a bank account in Brazil, the documents required are CPF*, RNM (National Migration Registry), passport, proof of residence and proof of enrollment. Remember to close your bank account by the end of your stay to avoid extra fees.

*The Individual Taxpayer Registry (CPF) is a document that allows you to do different operations such as opening a bank account, hiring phone and internet services, etc. You can request it in any post office ("Correios") or at the Receita Federal website. In Londrina, there is a post office located at Terminal Rodoviário José Garcia Villar, Avenida Dez de Dezembro, 1830, Helena (opening hours: Monday to Friday from 9am to 5pm, Saturday from 8am to 12pm).

Communication

All our campuses have free wifi for students and staff. You can also hire internet services on mobile companies' stores.

To make long distance calls, just type: 00 + company code + country code + city code + phone number.
